MOSAIC MUSE

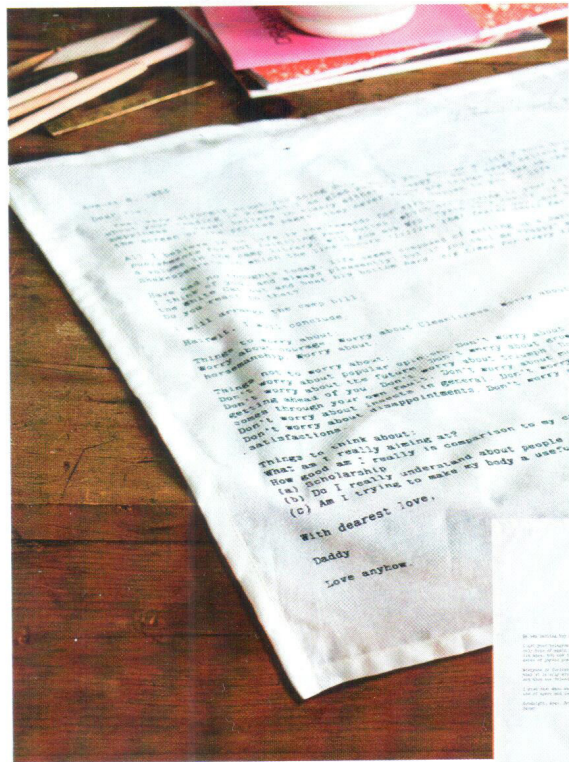

With a surface that appears 3-D, these psychedelic geometric pieces are definitely not your grandmother's mosaics. Resembling a collage of shattered glass shards, the unique tiles bring the drama in a hypercontemporary way that has us dreaming of a super-modern bath. Designed by Italian architect Sergio Savino, the tiles are composed of 85 percent natural stone and 15 percent resin, making them as durable as they are attractive.

Textures natural stone-blend mosaic Fasce Lisce TILES in Carrara and Nero Africa, from $48 per sq. ft. each, Ciot, ciot.com.
